Hi [REDACTED]

Please could you let the customer know that all tourist sign applications must be first submitted to the generic tourist sign inbox at: touristinformationsigns@nationalhighways.co.uk

Section A of the application form must be filled out by the applicant, Section B needs to be filled out by the home highway authority (HHA), which in this case is likely to be Cornwall Council, however please do check and confirm. The HHA is the highway authority for the road which provides the main direct access to a tourist destination or leisure facility. For information, I attached a blank application form for the Customer.

The application would be assessed against CG152 of the DMRB. Please ensure all supporting documents are submitted with the form.

We are aware that a tourist sign application was submitted around August 2023, however Section B of the form was not filled out, subsequently the form was returned back to the applicant.

If the application is deemed successful, we would invite the applicant to enter into a S278 agreement with National Highways, this will be further explained later subject to the review outcome.

Please note, meeting the eligibility criteria does not mean that a tourist destination or leisure facility is automatically entitled to tourist or leisure signs. Other factors such as the safe accommodation of signs within the highway are also assessed.

Kind Regards

[REDACTED]

Dear Mr [REDACTED]

Further to previous correspondence I am requesting permission to attach the sign in the attached pdf. To the existing posts at the Treguddick junction on the A30. The brown sign will be fitted below the existing direction sign.

If you are happy our operations team can erect the sign as the existing sign is located on the verge adjacent to the junction.

Yours sincerely

Dear Mr ██████████

Thank you for your email of 13 November 2023 about additional signage on the A30 for Treguddick.

Having looked at the junction itself it's minor in nature with the A30. On the westbound approach, there is a junction warning sign in place prior to the actual turn off – see Google link here - which appears to be in accordance with Traffic Signs Chapter 4 requirements.

In general, the more important junctions normally have either a stack or a map sign in place prior to the turn off, others only have a Diagram no 506.1 (junction warning) in place. The type of sign used depends on the importance of destination, road classification, volume of traffic and junction type. The flag sign by the junction for Treguddick is in the driver's view from approximately 140m prior to the turn off.

Our initial assessment is that the current westbound signing is in order and conforms to Traffic Signs Manual Chapter 4 requirements, therefore we do not have any plans to improve it. To avoid sign clutter, it is our policy to not use advance directional signing at minor junctions.

We hope this helps with your enquiry. If you require any further information please contact our Customer Contact Centre on 0300 123 5000 or info@nationalhighways.co.uk, or visit our website at www.nationalhighways.co.uk

Thank you once again for contacting us.
